Trucks Exist For One Reason, They Are Needed, They Do The Job

All the advertising in the world would mean nothing if trucks were not a necessary link in our economic chain. Motor trucks are in use today because they fill the need for fast, efficient transportation in age where speed and efficiency are demanded.

Chicago, one of the great rail centers of the world, receives 85 per cent of its milk supply by truck. Seventy-five metropolitan areas with 25 million people depend upon trucks for their fluid milk.

Stop the trucks for a week and this nation would be in serious trouble. Even for one day and cities would feel the pinch.

When you hear criticism of the motor truck ask the critic how over 4,000 communities in Pennsylvania would get their merchandise were it not for trucks.

The Soviet Union's 45th veto preventing a United Nations investigation of Communist China's charges that American planes have attacked Manchurian territory reveals clearly Problem which side has something to hide.

It is now obvious that the Communists have nothing but a propaganda motive in bringing up the accusations, which were undoubtedly exaggerated all out of proportion to the facts. It is possible, as Warren R. Austin has admitted, that an American plane may have crossed the Manchurian border by

But the United States is perfectly willing to accept responsibility for any such accidents as may have occurred and pay just damages, providing the charges are substantiated. The Communists, however, will have none of this.

It may be that in this incident our diplomats have found a formula for countering other Communist lies. In any event, the Red efforts to hide the truth afford a forceful answer to their own charges.

THE PEOPLE SPEAK

Taking pot shots at the amorphous mass of humanity known as politicians is a time honored sport. It's almost elevated itself to the extent that—like grousing in the armed services—it has become a right rather than a privilege.

But seldom has a pot shot been reported as the one taken by a representative sampling of the good people of Birmingham, Ala. A newspaper there asked its readers who should have what priority on the limited amount of bomb shelter too easy to challenge his best efspace available in Birmingham should there be an atomic at- forts. How Much Rope For Junior?

By PAUL GALLICO

Pondering over the International Situation which everybody agrees is not too hot at the moment, and considering the number of menaces at home and abroad who spend most of their waking hours plotting to conquer the free world and put out the lamp of liberty, one arrives at the disturbing thought that once upon a time, all of them were little boys and girls running around somewhere playing innocently, that they had fathers and mothers who had a hand in their upbringing and somewhere along the line, the deal went sour.

Which brings us by a somewhat round-about path to the subject of today's educational and cultural program which is roughly entitled, How Much Rope To Give Junior?

Has Agitated All Parents

It is, I am sure, a subject that has at one time agitated every parent intent on raising up his offspring, the question of the amount of independence one can afford to give one's pride and joy and at what exact moment to bestow it. For every parent teeters between the horn of the dilemma of ruining Junior's spirit and sending him forth into the world with his lips already habituated to saying. "Yes, Mr. Diefendorfer. That's right, Mr. Diefendorfer. Whatever you say, Mr. Diefendorfer," or on the other hand producing some monster who is happy only when he is bullying someone and who is only waiting for the moment when he can don a shirt of some uniform color, hang some insignia on his chest and rally the dopes to follow him across his neighbor's boundary line to take away from him what he's got By and large, it is a blessing, and apparently one of nature's protections, that the average citizen grows up into neither of these. Still, the percentage of yes-men and dictators, real and would be, make this investigation valid. If you don't think so, look at the mess we're all in at this very moment on account of them. Somebody's father and mother upset the applecart at some stage of the education of their little ones.

We will grant that social conditions frequently play their part in moulding the attitude of the growing child toward the society into which he is growing, but not always. The itch to lord it over one's fellow man is by no means confined to the poor and the underprivileged. Alexander the Great, Nero, Caligula and others came from very good families. And a lot of Americans who have been playing footie with the Commies up to, and possibly including this ment, have been very well off indeed

Question Before House

The question before the house is when is that lust for power born in Junior, and how do we keep it confined to a desire to be duly elected and installed as Chairman of the Board? For it must be understood that it is one thing for a downtrodden party to wish to do in the eye someone he is convinced has been doing the treading down, and quite another to be possessed of the urge to control every-thing and everyone. It is the latter which has got us all into this jam, since it also exploits the former.

The problem facing every parent looking down upon his or her bundle of pink innocence squirming in its crib is that he's got one of them potentially in his home and it is quite possible that fifty years from then, said same bundle of innocence will be sitting behind a desk, wearing a uniform, his chest bespangled with medals, saying to his yes-men, "Oceana, our neighbor, is at present, weak, unarmed and helpless. It's let its Army and Navy go to pot and the wings rot off the Air Force. We will attack at dawn. Shoot, stab, hang, burn any-one who resists."

May Be Yes Man

Or again, said same bundle of innocence may grow up to be the yes-man who rises, salutes and says, "Okay, Chief. We'll wipe them out. What do those aggressive devils mean, menacing us by having orders not to discuss any phase of two customs officers sitting on our border looking at the passports of our citizens when they wish to cross? It is an insult to us was in striking contrast to the and only shows their foul intention to attack us at the earliest possible moment. Let us defend ourselves by destroying them.'

The psychiatrists are still arguing over which type is most likely to wish to stand up and take the salute of the loyal dopes as they march by, whether it is the kid who is the leader and instigator of whatever goes on in the gang, and thus gets a taste of power, or little pasty-face who gets pushed and cuffed around and isn't even allowed to join the mob

And This Department would not dream of offering a solution not being that smart. It only knows that along the line a lot of parents flopped on the job and that the result at the moment an't pretty to behold. It is time to regard Junior with a new and warier

New Castle panel of the United Council of Church is sponsoring a meeting Tuesday afternoon, September 19, at 2:30 o'clock in Feb. tember 19, at 2:30 o'clock in Epworth Methodist church, East Washington at Butler. Notices have been sent to the "prayer cells" and key women in congregations of Protestant churches in all parts of Lawrence county to be present at the assembly.

The women will receive instruc-tion and inspiration at next Tues-day's meeting for the launching of women. The word ecumenicity an ecumenical register of church was derived from the Greek word for "household". The meaning in Christian usage is "whole household of God, all nations and all branches of the Church". Local women hope to register

TARTANS AND PLAIDS POPULAR FALL FABRICS Plaids are more popular that ever this fall. Tartans have come into their own since the gathering of the Scottish clans and the Scotch music festival in Scotland the sum mer of 1949. Technically, plaids and tartans are not the same, but in popular use the terms are used

Garden Notes For '50 Season

Apple trees can be planted in late autumn after the trees have shed their leaves. If they are to be planted in the spring, the ear-lier they can be put into the ground the better.

Remember to protect watermelons and muskmelons from damage by wireworms. This is easily accomplished by placing a board or shingle under each fruit.

Do not leave cull apples or wormy fruits lying under the trees over winter. Rake them up and dispose of them. This method of sanitation is one effective way to keep brown rot of plums and grapes under control.

Fruit trees planted this fall should have a mulch of coarse manure or vegetable matter around them to protect the soil against alternate freezing and thawing. Overly acid or overly alkaline soils require corrective measures. Have tests made to learn the actual condition of the soil. Lime is the corrective for an acid soil and aluminum sulphate for a soil which is too alkaline.

A wise gardener will have some hay or straw ready at hand when early frost threatens. The useful ness of many plants, such as Swiss chard and lettuce, will continue if a protective mulch is placed over them on cold nights.

Poppy seeds planted now will come up before the end of the season but will endure the winter safely and bloom well next Chandler, Ariz., where he will receive six months of training in a plants will be in bud. Don't forget that newly planted trees especially need an abundance of water. Others should also be well supplied with moisture before going into the winter. This applies to evergreens particularly.

When storing sweet potatoes, winter squashes and pumpkins, remember that they require a dry atmosphere of 50 degrees or over. Grapes do not ripen after being picked. If they are to be stored, they must be placed in a dry place with a low temperature. Vegetables and fruits intended for storage should be sound and not over-ripe. Perfect product is one of the first essentials for good
